Cuts No Figure.

My moving expenses have nothing to do with the price of my goods. I still sell as cheap as I did in my old stand, and that is the cheapest.

N. E. HALL.

A Pleasant Party.

A few of Lutesville's young men favored N. E. Hall with a choice vocal serenade last Saturday night. In return they were served with refreshments and favored with some rare instrumental music by Mrs. Hall. The parting compliment was a plate of handsome button hole bouquets from Mrs. Hall. They were entertained again at the same place Tuesday evening.

PLAYED CROQUET.

A Lawn Fete For Miss Alice Gay.

Literary and Musical Parties. Social Items.

Fred S. Ratterman gave two informal concerts at Dr. J. A. Reck's office in Lutesville last week. He is a jewel in the line of entertainment. He is a fine instrumental and vocal musician, and is chock full of good stories on his experience as a boogie agent and of a miscellaneous nature. He is a genial, witty gentleman both in business and society. He represents the P. Collier book company and he had phenomenal sales here. He represents a good house and carries a good line of books.

There was a very pleasant little croquet party at Conrad park last Tuesday afternoon. The games were interesting. Misses Anna Conrad, Dora Ax, Rosa Fischer, Flora Frymire, Alice Dominico, Alice Gay, May Kinder, Susie Graves and Effie Lane; and Messrs J. W. Caldwell, C. E. Oswald, R. L. Allen, Tom Allen, E. O.
